“On the first day of cold damage, greater yang (tai yang) is affected, and signs include headache and pain in the neck, and stiffness in the low back. On the second day, yang brightness (yang ming) is affected. Since the yang ming governs the flesh, and its channel passes up the side of the nose to connect with the eyes, there is generalized fever, eye pain, and dry nose. On the third day, lesser yang (shao yang) is affected. Since the lesser yang governs the gallbladder, and its channel passes through the rib-side and connects with the ears, symptoms include pain in the chest and rib-side and tinnitus...”
